

The Book of Mormon teaches Oneness

Most Mormon denominations teach Christology doctrines which contradict the Book of Mormon. Therefore many people are not aware that the Book itself actually teaches a monotheistic doctrine known as Oneness. It demolishes the revered Trinity doctrine, and teaches that the one and only Eternal Father, manifested Himself in a human body as the New Testament Messiah. And after His resurrection, He ministered to His "other sheep" in America. See John 10:16 and 3 Nephi 15:16-21 (7:16-20)¹

This is consistent with Ezek 34:11, which says: For thus says the Sovereign Yahweh: Behold I myself, even I, will search for my sheep, and will seek them out. And John 10:11: I am the good shepherd; the good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep. (Bethel edition)

ADDITIONAL PROOF

The above texts are only a sample! A 112 page booklet, The Infinite God, written by Samuel Wood in 1934, gives comprehensive and irrefutable proof that the Oneness doctrine is consistent throughout the Book of Mormon. A free reprint of this booklet is available from the Truthseekers address on the back.

JOSEPH SMITH DID NOT SEE THE FATHER AND SON

Most Mormon denominations insist that the Father and the Son, as two physical personages, visited Joseph Smith in the spring of 1820. But the Book of Mormon clearly informs us that there is only one Eternal Father, and that He manifested Himself in human form as the New Testament Messiah. It is therefore utterly impossible for Joseph to have ever seen the Father and Son as two separate personages!

The earliest Mormon Church members never heard of Joseph seeing two divine beings in the grove in 1820. This alleged event was first published twenty years later in Scotland, in a pamphlet by Orson Pratt in 1840. The falsity of Joseph Smith's so called "first vision" is well documented by Jerald and Sandra Tanner, in their books Mormonism, Shadow or Reality, chapter 8; and The Case Against Mormonism, Volume 1, chapter 5. These books are available from Utah Lighthouse Ministry; Box 1884; Salt Lake City, UT 84110.

Oneness and Trinity are not the same. Since 325 C.E., Catholicism has treated Oneness as heresy. And we should keep in mind, the probability that enemies of truth may have infiltrated the early Mormon Church, with a covert agenda to keep the people from understanding the Oneness doctrine in the Book of Mormon. There is evidence to indicate that somebody other than Joseph Smith concocted the story of two divine personages in the grove.³

CHURCH DOCTRINE VERSUS BOOK OF MORMON DOCTRINE

We learn in 2 Ne 3:12 (2:20-21) that the Book of Mormon is to "grow together" with the Bible to confound false doctrine. But how could it accomplish its purpose unless people (including Joseph Smith) would study the Book and understand it? And it appears that Joseph was so busy with other Church affairs, that he did not take time enough to study the Book. It is a documented fact⁴ that the early Mormon Church taught that the Father and Son are two separate entities. And so they unwittingly put their own human Church doctrine on a collision course with Book of Mormon doctrine! But what the Book says, of course, is the most important.

It certainly appears that Joseph did not understand all the doctrines which the Book of Mormon teaches, and this is just one more evidence that he could not have written the Book in the first place. And of course he did not, if the Book is true!
